RABBI'S MESSAGE

During the past couple of years, my wife, Tsiporah, my son, Josh, and I have visited fourteen university campuses in the East, the Deep South, and the Midwest. Although there were distinct differences in the personalities of these fourteen universities, there was a remarkable similarity in the one-hour information sessions. Almost all of the presenters prefaced their remarks by saying, "These are the qualities that make our school unique!" Almost all of the presenters pointed to the diversity of their student populations. They would proudly boast that their students come from all fifty states and from at least twenty to thirty foreign countries as well.

Within the Union for Reform Judaism, the Hebrew Tabernacle is unique. Holocaust survivors and children of Holocaust survivors make up a large percentage of our membership. The German musical tradition continues to be a major component of our worship, particularly the High Holy Days, Kristallnacht, and Yom ha Shoah.

Our uniqueness also stems from our diversity. Our membership embraces individuals who represent a broad range of ethnic backgrounds and family constellations. Because we believe that worship is two-way communication between those who stand on the Bema and those who sit in the pews, we offer different types of services throughout the year. While there is a significant dose of formal worship involving organ or organ and choir, there is informal worship as well. On a monthly basis, we offer family services which place more emphasis on guitar and in which the liturgy and length of service is child-friendly. On a monthly basis on Friday evenings and on six selected Saturdays throughout the year, services are completely lay-led and place great emphasis on congregational participation and interaction between the service leaders and the congregants. Many of these services have featured the piano accompaniment of David Deschamps. There are occasional Friday evenings where I lead a brief, interactive Torah study or when we invite a speaker to make a presentation on a contemporary topic. There are occasional Saturday mornings where I substitute an interactive study session in lieu of a formal sermon from the pulpit. Last year, we had two Shabbat-in-Song services in which we made use of a wide variety of instruments and several Hebrew Tabernacle musicians, and placed greater emphasis on singing the liturgy and dancing in the aisles than on the spoken word. By being open to multiple worship strategies, we hope to touch the souls of all age groups represented by the Hebrew Tabernacle.

On January 26, 2013, which corresponds with Shabbat Shirah, we will be celebrating our diversity. At present, the plan calls for the first part of the service to be completely lay led in the a capella style.

The second part of the service, from the Amida onwards, will feature melodies from the German tradition and will feature the organ. As a departure from normal practice on Shabbat mornings, both the Torah and Haphtarah portions will be chanted by capable members of our congregation. The major feature of this service will be the fact that I will be sharing the pulpit with Rabbi Maggie Wenig who continues to be a strong spiritual leader of the Beth Am community. She will be addressing the congregation that day.

I strongly encourage the broad spectrum of our congregation to support and warmly embrace this service. Constructive feedback will be welcomed. Shabbat Shirah, this year, gives us an opportunity to experience different musical and clergy styles within the same service. In the words of the psalmist, "Sing unto Adonoy, a new song!"

Rummage Sale Brings in $8000 – Best Year Yet!!!

Whether because it was closer to the holidays or because people were just in the mood to relax and shop, December seemed to be a good month to hold our annual Rummage Sale. It was our most successful to date, bringing in over $8,000.00.

Many supportive volunteers spent hours at the Tabernacle setting up the donated goods so that the social hall rivaled Macy's in all its finery! At 10:00am, when the sale officially began, a crowd had already gathered and was picking out bargains galore. More volunteers roamed the room and offered help to the myriad of customers.

Our café was open, selling fresh baked goods, coffee, tea, and hot chocolate. Kudos to Grace Neidish and Ruth Wertheimer for manning the table for so many hours.

This year, we added two jewelry tables. Thank you to Clarice Hausman and Lilia Levin for donating the jewelry and their time to bring more cachet and cash to our sale.

Member, Darrell Goodman, donated brand new children's pajamas again. They make fabulous gifts and customers were quite happy to scoop them up at discounted prices. We still have some of the sets so if interested, get in touch with Ruth in the office and she will be happy to show you the remaining colors and sizes.

A wonderful tradition of the annual rummage sale continues. One devoted customer, and a member of our congregation, continues to be so impressed with our fund raising efforts at the rummage sale, she presented us with her yearly bountiful monetary gift again. This donation is in appreciation for what we do at HT and is allocated for maintenance of the building so we can continue to bring events to the community.

Speaking of community, this successful fund raiser could not have happened without the hard work, dedication, and endless hours offered by our devoted team of volunteers. Our community of volunteers was as varied as the merchandise! Sisterhood members, Hebrew School students and those in between! Members and non-members alike worked in tandem to make this a fun and profitable event. Enormous thanks to each and every one of you. Because of you we are the "talk of the town!"

Special thanks to Ruth Lilienstein and Susan Blum in the office, and our incredible movers and schleppers, William Ramos and Elvis Ortiz.

We certainly are the "best in the Heights!"

Rummage Sale Co-Chairs

Artist's Opening Reception
MONDAY, JANUARY 7, 2013 7:00 – 8:00 pm
(Please note new day and time!)

ARTIST'S STATEMENT

I am influenced and moved by physical and mythological cosmology drawings from different times and cultures that reveal different ideas about human beings' thoughts of our own importance in our universe: Heliocentric and geocentric maps, the Babylonian idea of a flat earth floating in infinite waters of chaos, The Haida myth of the Raven freeing beings in an oyster shell—who became the first humans and populated the earth.

This work represents the creation of a mythos by animals, a fantasy about creatures—groundhogs, birds, cephalopods—making images to codify their ideas of how their world was created: publishable and permanent, full of symbols.

This exhibit will be open to all from January through February, 2013. Please call the synagogue office to find out viewing hours for the Gold Gallery; 212-568-8304.

*Some paintings may be for sale. Please discuss this with the artist.
Hebrew Tabernacle receives a special donation from each purchase.*

I wanted to send a brief THANK YOU to our congregational friends and family, especially my mother's "sisters" who were so emotionally supportive to my mom. Thanks for all the calls. You meant so much to her and she was saddened that she was too weak to call everyone back. I thank you for your support, encouraging words and the memories you shared with me as I continue to grieve her loss. –

ALL AROUND THE TABERNACLE

Throughout its history as a home for reformed Jewish worship in northern Manhattan, the Hebrew Tabernacle has also functioned as a center for events, classes, and public forums in the Washington Heights/Inwood community. This year we added new programs to our long-standing offerings.

Music Together is now in its twelfth year of offering classes at the Tabernacle. These weekly classes for infants, toddlers, preschoolers, and their parents or caregivers, are based on the premise that all children are musical and that parents & primary caregivers play a crucial role in activating a child's music development. The classes include songs, rhythmic rhymes and movement, and instrument play activities that are developmentally

Yvonne Bill currently conducts the winter class at the Tabernacle. Yvonne, who holds an MA in vocal music from the Manhattan School of Music, discovered Music Together when she enrolled her own toddler son in a local class. She recognized the credibility and strength of the program and was further impressed that the music played is good! When Yvonne learned that the program was seeking more teachers she joined the staff, of which she has been part for about two years. For information about Music Together, and about special rates for Hebrew Tabernacle members, please contact Program Director Donetta Riley at pam@citykidsmusic.com.

Recently the Tabernacle has also welcomed Music for Aardvarks, a Brooklyn-based, once-a-week class for toddlers, currently led at HT by instructor Paul Wyatt. During each session Paul plays the guitar and leads children and adults in singing original Aardvarks music. The class incorporates a small amount of recorded music. Paul finds its sing-along format to be an "excellent form of musical exposure for kids." Please contact 1-800-507-2080 or info@MusicForBrooklyn.com for information about classes at the Tabernacle.

This fall we also had the privilege to host GIG (Get it Going), a class that met in twelve sessions, each offering a unique, organized physical workout to local teen girls. The program was developed by local pediatrician, Yolanda Eng, MD, who secured a funding grant and invested much time and planning in her goal to bring regular, fun, physical activity into the girls' lives. Dr. Eng, a medical professional well known to the Washington Heights Community, is deeply invested in such teen girls' health concerns as obesity, poor nutrition, self-esteem, and lack of access to physical fitness.

The program, led by a changing cast of dance, martial arts, and exercise instructors was a joy to watch and, according to the comments of teen participants, great fun to take part in.

— Ruth Lilienstein, Office Manager

Thank you very much for your kind words, support, cards, donations and attending the memorial services in memory of Phyllis Taylor.

It is greatly appreciated during this difficult time of mourning.
