RABBI'S MESSAGE

In an excerpt from his famous essay, "The American Scholar", Ralph Waldo Emerson invites us to find beauty and greatness in the everyday activities of life. He writes:

I embrace the common, I explore and sit at the feet of the familiar, the low. Give me insight into today, and you may have the antique and future worlds. What would we really know the meaning of? The meal in the firkin; the milk in the pan; the ballad in the street; the news of the boat; the glance of the eye; the form and the gait of the body;—show me the ultimate reason of these matters. . . .

Like Ralph Waldo Emerson, Judaism embraces the common. While there is a major place for spirituality, the primary focus of Judaism is not to provide extraordinary religious experiences. The synagogue, the Law, and the myriad details of Jewish custom are designed to give structure to our spirituality, to analyze it, and to cut it down to size. While the Book of Exodus describes the dramatic events leading up to the revelation of Torah, our ancestors soon become settled into a daily routine. They receive specific instructions in such areas as synagogue construction, appropriate food and clothing, infectious diseases, business and personal ethics, and observance of major festivals. Indeed, we find God's nose poked into the nooks and crannies of everyday life.

Like the giving of the law on Mt. Sinai, there is great spiritual intensity associated with the High Holy Days. Most synagogues are filled to capacity during Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur. The special liturgy is often powerful and the special music is often stirring. From the pulpit, we listen to the majestic reading from the scroll as well as the blasts of the Shofar.

On Rosh Hashana Morning, the chanting of the Akedah narrative represents a moment of high drama. Nothing could be more nail biting than Abraham nearly sacrificing his own son to serve a higher purpose. Nevertheless, Abraham makes his way back to everyday life. After he gets through this gut-wrenching ordeal, he is soon faced with the more mundane task of purchasing a burial plot for his wife, Sarah.

The Neilah service concludes with a powerful rendition of Tekiah G'dolah. Yet, Jewish law quickly gets us back into reality. When Yom Kippur finally comes to an end, it is customary to symbolically begin the construction of the Sukkah. We are not allowed to stay in a perpetual state of religious euphoria. The mundane world requires our attention and we have to get busy.

Real spirituality is not found in occasional episodes of intense religious fervor. It is found in the everyday activities of life. In an old television series, a seasoned, professional author gives words of wisdom to a budding writer.

Don't waste your life searching for the one big story you were born to write. Write the little stories. Who knows, the sum total of them might be the big one. Write about life in your community, your feelings about your family and this place, just the way you've been doing.

At Hebrew Tabernacle, we have many big success stories. They represent the sum total of smaller success stories. In terms of religious education, the Monday and Wednesday classes, the highly personal B'nei Mitzvah training and B'nei Mitzvah services, the interactive Tot Shabbat and family services, the family dinners, the special programs organized by the parents, the high percentage of children that we send to Jewish camps, and the regular Wednesday morning and Saturday adult education geared towards seniors, are the small successes. The sum total of these successes is a spiritually vibrant community. In terms of social action, the annual mitzvah day geared towards families, the regular Hebrew High School visits to the HUC soup kitchen, the ongoing collection of food for the needy, the annual rummage sale which is open to the entire neighborhood, our support of interfaith dialogue and programming, and our enduring contacts with political figures represent some of the small success stories. The sum total of these successes is an outward-looking Hebrew Tabernacle taking its place as a major player in the broader Inwood-Washington Heights area.

When we approach the High Holy Days at Hebrew Tabernacle, let us not look upon them as our annual spiritual "fill-up" for the year. While high drama and intense moments do kindle religiosity, it is regular, practical Jewish observance that insures enduring commitment. Jewish observance cannot be confined to the High Holy Days nor to select life cycle events. Judaism will have more meaning for us when it permeates our lives every day of the year. While we look forward to the more dramatic moments of the year such as the High Holy Days, Interfaith Thanksgiving, and Kristallnacht, let us also, in Emerson's language, "embrace the common."

The Elements of the Cosmos

Laura was raised in Brazil in a city at the nexus of the Amazon basin and the Atlantic ocean. Strongly influenced by this aquatic labyrinth and laced network of rivers and motion, she chose ink and watercolor as her medium. In her 20's, as she studied yoga and contemporary dance, she started processing a sense of time, space, and internal proprioception – knowledge of the self in space, of the interior mind in the body and the world. Her work evolved a focus in the exploration of the elements of those landscapes – the strong but soft movement of water; the intricacy of a single leaf; the textures of a tree trunk. Eventually, only lines and space remained.

Her work has continued to deepen into inquiries of the elements: earth, water, fire, air and space, their nature and tendencies, through work with textiles, alternating brushwork and wax, pigmentation, dyes, and fluid acrylics. She lives, works and plays in one of New York City's only remaining nature environments, Inwood Hill Park.

Letter from one of the Vice Presidents

WELCOME FORT TRYON JEWISH CENTER

The members of the of the Board and the entire Hebrew Tabernacle Congregation would like to welcome the Fort Tryon Jewish Center back to our building. We look forward to doing some joint programming in the future.

TRIP TO ISRAEL

My family and I just returned from a wonderful trip to Israel. It was exciting, educational, loads of fun, and relaxing. If you have never been there I strongly urge you to go, and if you have not been there in a few years you should return because the country changes very rapidly. In the next edition I will write about some of our wonderful experiences.

STAIR LIFT(S) FUNDRAISER

The fundraiser is well on its way but we still have a long way to go before we meet our goal. We have managed to bring the cost down to between $6,500 and $8,000. There is a range because once the stair lifts are installed there will be a need for some miscellaneous electrical work. The plan is to have one installed for the sanctuary and one for the social hall in time for the High Holidays. Quite a few of our members need the stair lift in order to attend services, which they have not been able to do so since our old one gave out. Since the stair lifts are that important it has been decided to take a leap of faith and fund the project by taking a loan from our operating budget and reaching out to our congregation for support. Please donate as much as you can for this very important project.

TOT MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM

This is the second year we will be offering a Tot family membership. You may pick up a Tot Membership form from the office. In conjunction with this program we will be having a Tot-Hashanah service. We are also looking into having the building available for regular group play activities during the week. If you or somebody you know is interested in this program, please have them contact Shelly Koy

HEBREW TABERNACLE GALA

Plans are now in the works for a joyous fundraiser gala to celebrate our 110th anniversary next year. The date will be announced very shortly.

RUMMAGE SALE

Start cleaning cleaning out your closets. Starting in October will be accepting donations. Please do not donate any used bedding items (only items that have never been used and are in sealed packaging) or items that are soiled or broken. In the adult garment category, please only bring coats, jackets, ties, sweaters, shoes and boots. Volunteers are needed to sort, set up, pack, and clean up, as well as to serve as cashiers, floor walkers and workers in the refreshment area. To volunteer for this event please contact Rose Ellen Neidish or myself.

L'SHANAH TOVAH, wishing all of you a year filled with peace, health, and happiness.

—Mike Klein, Vice President and Building Manager
