

RABBI'S MESSAGE

An important component of our congregational family is our children. One of our top priorities is to make them feel comfortable within these walls and to carry this comfort through adulthood. One of the jewels in the Hebrew Tabernacle crown is the monthly Friday night service. The services have been particularly successful during the last couple of years for two major reasons. First, the dinners which take place afterwards have become more affordable. When sizeable numbers of families are able to remain in the synagogue after services and break bread together, there is greater bonding to our community. Public worship cannot be divorced from social fellowship. Secondly, our family services reject the notion that children are miniature adults who will be able to sit through an abbreviated adult liturgy. The content takes into consideration that pre-B'nei Mitzvah students process their environment differently from adults and require a different approach.

The time has come for introducing regular family services on Saturday mornings. Such services offer an important dimension that cannot be offered on Friday nights—exposing young people to the Torah service. The first such service took place on November 21st and had the following unique features:

1. An abbreviated liturgy. Attention spans of children are not the same as adults.
2. Music. While the Hebrew Tabernacle has a rich tradition of German music, alternative melodies reflect more contemporary developments in the reform movement. The goal is to transform congregants into active participants rather than spectators.
3. Revision of the Torah Service.
 - a. Shorter Torah reading with one Aliyah. All congregants, whether they be children or adults, are called up and receive birthday blessings as well.
 - b. Shorter Haphtarah reading.
 - c. Children march with the scroll during the hakafah or procession around the synagogue.
 - d. The D'var Torah is interactive. The children are dismissed to discuss the portion with a qualified adult teacher. The adults remain in the synagogue for an interactive text study.
 - e. Pre-Bar/Bat Mitzvah students help with the dressing of the scroll.
4. Revised Aleinu. The children come up to the Ark and sing "Let us Adore" with the Cantor.
5. A light potluck lunch after the service.

All of these features will be tweaked as Saturday morning family services gain momentum. "Child friendly" service does not necessarily mean that decorum will be compromised. On the contrary, if family worship is sensitive to the attention span and cognitive skills of young people, encourages ritually appropriate movement, and gives teens and pre-teens a sense of "ownership," we will have better behavior than if we artificially impose an adult model. Children see the world in their own special way. It is a big mistake to think of them as miniature adults.

"Child friendly" worship, if consistently carried out for at least five years, will provide a long-term benefit for Hebrew Tabernacle. Not only will it provide a meaningful experience for youngsters in the present, it will create a generation of teenagers and adults who feel totally at home in the synagogue.

I recall a young family service which took place many years ago. After the service, a young boy came up to me and asked, "Is God here?" By nurturing "child friendly" family services, and by seeing those smiling faces walk through our doors, we will surely feel God's presence at the Hebrew Tabernacle. Appropriate length, appropriate language and music, fast-paced choreography, and liberal doses of youth participation are a formula for success. When pre-school children come back twenty years from now, may they emphatically proclaim, "God is here"!

Sara Levin Bat Mitzvah January 16, 2016

Sara Levin is an eighth grader at Columbia Secondary School for Math, Science and Engineering in Morningside Heights, where she loves leading tours for prospective students. At school, Sara's favorite subject is math. Outside of school, she loves to dance. She took many classes in many styles of dance, including African and flamenco, and has settled on hip hop. Steps. She likes to play volleyball and ping pong, to bike and to ski, to draw, make jewelry, and bake. She also loves to travel. Last year Sara visited Russia, where her mother grew up. She is following in the footsteps of her dad and older brother and is seriously studying the Russian language. The next trip Sara hopes to take is to England (Downton Abbey). Sara has attended the Hebrew School at Hebrew Tabernacle since Alef (1st grade). Her favorite community service activity is helping at the rummage sale and at the Purim Carnival, including baking hamantaschen. Sara loves New York and Washington Heights, and is happy to have many family members and friends in the neighborhood.

Sara DaSilva Bat Mitzvah January 23, 2016

Sara DaSilva is an eighth-grader at The Center School, where her favorite subjects are math and literature. Her passion is writing, whether it's stories, biographical sketches, letters, or poems. Last summer she had a wonderful time at Writopia Camp in Pennsylvania, where she and other young people spent some of their time writing and the rest of their time at swimming, dances, open mics, and having fun. She also likes to read, sail, play cello, and spend time with her dog Pip. Sara's mitzvah projects are centered at Hebrew Tabernacle: Last year, she was Shelly's assistant at the monthly Tot Shabbat program, and this year she is one of the helpers in the Hebrew School's alef class. Sara has taken to Hebrew as naturally as a duck to water, which is not surprising for someone who also is learning Latin, Mandarin, and American Sign Language. She is excited (and nervous) about becoming a bat mitzvah at Hebrew Tabernacle.

Sara and her family welcome the reform Jewish community of Washington Heights to a kiddush luncheon in the social hall following the service on Saturday, January 23, 2016 (Shabbat Shirah).

STRAIGHT TALK FROM THE ARTIST HIMSELF

I don't actively try to connect with nature when I paint, nor do I invite viewers to have out-of-body experiences when they look at a specific painting.

There are no hidden meanings or messages in my work. What you see is what I saw! I'm a simple guy with a few tubes of paint, a couple of brushes and decent quality, long-lasting watercolor paper. However, 100% of the time, the subject matter of every painting I create is of something that I've witnessed, experienced and really enjoyed looking at.

Before starting a new painting I always ask myself, "Will someone else actually enjoy this scene as much as I do?" And then I'll ponder, "Will it stand the test of time?" If I respond YES to these simple questions, I will proceed!

January 8 - February 26, 2016

Mr. Mendel will contribute a portion of the price of any painting sold at this exhibit to The Hebrew Tabernacle.

Reflections on the Torah and Bar/Bat Mitzvahs at a Family Service

The first fall Friday Family Service on November 6 started with children and parents writing down their responses to this question: “What are you grateful for that has happened since we were last together in May?” Parents were grateful that their newborn had grown to 7 months old; one small child was excited to start Kindergarten; and another kid was glad she had learned to write words! Another parent was grateful to rejoin the workforce. Children had watched whales and flamingoes and ridden horses on family trips to places near and far: New Jersey, Florida, Argentina, England, Paris and Brussels.

After a service of singing and praying, and before the festive meal, Kita Gimmel led a discussion on reading the Torah. Josie Auteurs, Mira Kotzin, Asher Morgan, Murphy Raff and Leah Weinraub pointed out that on Simchat Torah, we had finished reading the Torah to the end and started reading at the beginning again. So they asked the rest of us, “Have you ever had a book you wanted to read again and again?” Many hands went up—and not just for the Harry Potter series. Then they taught us that the last letter of the Torah is lamed (in “Yisra’el” or “Israel”) and the first letter of the Torah is bet (in “bereshit” or “in the beginning”). Together they form “lev” or “heart.” They asked us, “What does it mean to read Torah with our hearts?” There were several responses. “If we give our hearts as we read, we will receive wisdom.” “The Torah opens us to loving.” “When we read, we should take it to heart.”

Then Kita Zayin—Andy Silver, Siena Stoller, and Rebecca Hametz-Berner—shared their hopes and fears about their upcoming Bat/Bar Mitzvahs and those of their fellow students, Violet Kotzin and Daniel Levine. “I hope I don’t forget everything in the middle of my Torah portion.” “I hope my whole family can come—grandparents and relatives from far away.” “I hope the service isn’t too long.” “I hope I have a fun party afterwards.” “I chose the portion on Rebecca because my name is Rebecca!”

Then they asked us, “What do you remember from your Bat or Bar Mitzvahs?” One dad enjoyed learning Hebrew and studied it in college, too. One mom remembers that her whole family was there. There wasn’t a big party, but the luncheon was filled with love. One dad decided to lead Musaf and learned how to do it. An older mom remembered that she had a group confirmation—girls at that time did not get to have a Bat Mitzvah. Another mom remembered having an evening Bat Mitzvah when girls did not get to chant Torah. A younger mom chanted Bereshit, and the message of equality she found—in the verses where God made man and woman at the same time—influenced the kind of person she became as an adult.

The last mom remembered her grandparents—who are no longer alive—being present on that happy day. I promised that day to raise my children as Jews, and here we are carrying through on that promise. And then we all shared a festive meal.

Successful Innovation: Family-Friendly Shabbat Morning Service

On November 21, we held a new Family-Friendly Shabbat Morning Service, and 34 people came, including 11 children with their parents. Rabbi Gale and Cantor Feibush, accompanied on piano by Pres. Selig, led a shorter Shabbat Morning and Torah service. The children were part of the procession behind the Torah scrolls, which were carried by a Hebrew School parent and another congregant. There was only one aliyah—for children and adults who had a birthday from September to November—plus an abbreviated Haftarah reading. At this point, the children followed Hebrew School Teacher Ruth Frank-Holcomb to the Gold Wing to have their own discussion about the Torah story on Jacob at the well with Rachel and do some coloring, while the adults read aloud and discussed the Torah and conflicting commentaries about Vayetzei on the topic of prayer, Patriarchs and bargaining with God.

When the children returned to the sanctuary, three of them reported on their discussion: “It is a mitzvah for us to do a good deed when someone asks us. But it is an even greater mitzvah to do a good deed when no one has asked us. When Jacob moved the rock from the well, on his own and without being asked, it was an example of that kind of mitzvah.”

The service ended with all the children coming up to the ark and singing Aleinu with the congregation, followed by Shelly Koy reading a poem in honor of his mother’s yahrzeit before the Kaddish. The birthday aliyah and the opportunity to do a short reading before the Kaddish to honor a loved one will both be part of future Family-Friendly Shabbat Morning Services.

The service was followed by a delicious potluck dairy Kiddush, with an array of homemade cholent and baked goods, along with grapes, hummus, tuna salad and cheeses with bread and crackers. Old and new members commented how much they liked the service, especially the Torah discussions for both adults and kids. This concept was initiated by parents, Tabernacle Board members and our Rabbi through discussions in the Tabernacle Committee for an Inclusive Future. Keep an eye out for upcoming dates for more of these Family-Friendly Shabbat Services!

IN MEMORIAM

In grateful memory of the departed whose names are taken from the records of Hebrew Tabernacle and Beth Am and which appear on a separate weekly Yahrzeit list. It is our minhag to read Yahrzeit names at the Shabbat services following the date. If you would like a name read, please call the office in the preceding week.

Safe At Home

The Hudson Community Project

NOW, EASIER ACCESS TO SERVICES FOR OLDER ADULTS

The YM & YWHA of Washington Heights and Inwood (WHIY) has collaborated with the Riverdale YM-YWHA, the Jewish Community Council of Washington Heights and Inwood, and the Hebrew Home at Riverdale to form a unique partnership called The Hudson Community Project: Safe at Home.

It combines our agencies' resources, expands the geographic scope of our services-and streamlines the way we provide them. The result – older adults can receive a more comprehensive selection of services aimed at helping you maintain your independence and make living at home more comfortable and secure.

SOME OF OUR SERVICES INCLUDE

Case Management - Housing Advocacy - Kosher pantry - Kosher meals -
Social Adult Day care - In-home support - Health Maintenance - Rehabilitation - Transportation
