RABBI'S MESSAGE

Self-criticism is certainly a part of the contemporary Jewish life, especially with regards to the ongoing Israeli-Palestinian conflict. To be sure, many Jews blame the conflict on the refusal of extremist groups to recognize Israel as a Jewish state, their desire to wipe Israel off the map, and the pervasiveness of terrorism. Many self-critical Israelis, especially those from the political left, blame the oppressiveness of the occupation in Gaza and the West Bank.

Shortly after the observance of Israel Independence Day, the reform Jewish world mourned a giant within our movement: Rabbi Robert Samuels. While Rabbi Samuels was critical of the Israeli government's treatment of both Palestinians and Israeli Arabs, he was far more than a mere complainer. Rabbi Samuels was an ardent Zionist in an age when Zionism was not fashionable within Hebrew Union College.

Born in Houston, Texas and ordained at the Cincinnati campus of Hebrew Union College in 1960, he and his wife made Aliyah in 1962. Rabbi Samuels was a star pitcher for the Brandeis University baseball team and was even scouted by major league teams, but he chose the much more difficult path of serving the Jewish state for most of his adult life.

He established two synagogues in Haifa, was one of the founding members of MARAM, the Israeli Council of Progressive Rabbis, and was an active member of the Jerusalem Board of Overseers. His greatest accomplishment was that of serving as headmaster of the Leo Baeck Education Center from 1974-1999. He transformed into one of the premier educational and cultural institutions in Israel.

Tikun olam and g'milut chasadim pervaded every fiber of Rabbi Samuels' being. He and his wife, Annette, adopted families from the Ethiopian community, helping them survive bias and deprivation. He was beloved by the Druse and his outreach to his Arab neighbors offers a model for the future. Indeed, the Leo Baeck Community Centre is brimming with Israeli-Arab co-existence programs including an Israeli-Arab summer camp, an afternoon program for Israeli and Arab families at risk, and an annual summit for Israeli and Arab teenagers.

Somehow, it seems fitting that Rabbi Samuel's death took place just after the reading of Parshat Kedoshim. This Torah portion emphasizes that holiness is not confined to ritual observance. Holiness must also pervade in the realm of interpersonal relations. The key verses are the commandments to love our neighbors as ourselves and to particularly love the stranger or as we were strangers in the land of Egypt. As Rabbi Samuels writes:

Love is generated one person at a time, through empathy and caring. One life might seem pleasant, but in the long run, we cannot live a good life, if others do not. A strong democracy cannot survive when many of its people do not have a good life. We cannot have two parallel societies, one middle and upper class with enough material wealth, and another with not enough to have a basically healthy physical and spiritual life. Society must give opportunity to all to realize their dreams and have a decent life. It is this value that we must pass to those who follow us. Never be satisfied that you "have it all". There is no "all" until all others have a good life too.

We say in Hebrew, zacheir tzadik livracha. May Rabbi Robert Samuels' memory be for a blessing. May his idealism and tremendous accomplishments be an inspiration to all of us who walk in his footsteps.

THANK YOU!

I can't thank everyone enough for the cards, flowers, telephone calls, text messages, e-mails, and visits to the hospital and home, as well as for offering to prepare meals. My family, the Washington Heights community, Hebrew Tabernacle and Fort Tryon Jewish Center went all out in their support. It all helped through my stay at the hospital and with a speedy recovery. — Mike Klein

Letter from one of the Vice Presidents

ONE BIG NIGHT, THREE BIG EVENTS

June 11 was truly a big night at HT. It started off with a lovely Shavout service. This service normally has sparse attendance, but this time we had quite a nice attendance.

The service was followed by a wonderful celebratory dinner. Susan Blum and her staff really outdid themselves. The presentation and the food itself were exceptional. Harriet Bailer played the piano; Ralph Selig gave a brief history of Hebrew Tabernacle's 110 years and thanked Kenneth Feibush (Kenny) for his two sterling years of service to our congregation. On a personal note, I will truly miss him and the spirituality he contributed to our services. I wish him all the best at his new pulpit. Kenny pledged that he would keep in touch.

There was a lot of positive feedback from this event, so much that suggestions were made that we have an annual congregational Shavout dinner. If you are interested in helping organize this event for next year please contact me.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

By the time you read this edition of the bulletin, HT will have started its annual membership drive. There will be a 36% discount for new first-time members if they join before the high holidays. Please spread the word to your family, friends and neighbors. They can contact Shelly, myself, or the office, or check out our website for further information.

FOOD DRIVE

Keep the donations of nonperishable goods coming. Our large gray bin is nearly full and we would like to fill it before we call in a collection. Thank you all who have made donations to our food pantry.

— Mike Klein

Dear Members & Friends,

Rosh Hashanah begins October 2, 2016, and we are well into our High Holiday planning.

The Hebrew Tabernacle is pleased to have Rabbi Jeffrey Gale, Student Cantor Robby Wittner, organist David Shuler, and a professional quartet leading services in the Sanctuary. If you are receiving this letter you have joined us in the past and know that our service offers a special, unique, musical and worship experience of unparalleled quality.

Here is a schedule of the services:

- Sunday, October 2 at 7 PM. Erev Rosh Hashana Services in the Sanctuary.
- Monday, October 3rd at 9:00 am. Tot Hashana Service-children through Pre-K and families- Penthouse.
- Monday, October 3rd at 9:45 am. Rosh Hashana Services in the Sanctuary
- Tuesday, October 3rd at 9:45 am. Rosh Hashana Services in the Sanctuary
- Tuesday, October 3rd at 10:30 am. Youth Service for students of Hebrew School age in the Penthouse.
- Tuesday, October 11th at 7:00 pm. Kol Nidre Service for Erev Yom Kippur in the Sanctuary
- Wednesday, October 12th at 9:45 am. Yom Kippur services in the Sanctuary

Tickets for Sanctuary services are free to members of the Hebrew Tabernacle. If you have paid your dues, or are on a payment plan, your ticket will be mailed early in September. If you have not yet made any dues payment, please call the Hebrew Tabernacle office. If you are interested in joining Hebrew Tabernacle, please contact the office for more information. Non-member tickets will be available by calling the office. If you choose to become a member following the holidays, the cost of your ticket will be applied to your dues.

While provisions for High Holiday services are costly—clergy salaries and musician fees amount to tens of thousands of dollars over the Days of Awe—we feel strongly that finances should not be a barrier to worship. If you are able to pay the full price, we ask that you do so, so we may continue to provide the highest quality of worship experience. If you are able to pledge an additional amount, we encourage and are grateful for your generosity. If you are unable to pay the full amount, please call the office. The more of us who are together for the holidays, the greater is our sense of community, bringing warmth and depth to our shared experience of the Days of Awe. We welcome all to worship with us for the holidays.

Very truly yours,

Ralph Selig

The Inspiring Beauty of Nature and the City

Photographs by Caroline Brown

(cbrown@bhsusa.com 347-609-3202)

Caroline Brown's interest in photography blossomed when she and her husband Harry built a large camera that took 8" x 10" negatives, which could be printed to fit on a wall of the Fort Washington Collegiate Church.

She combined her interests in photography, history, historical preservation, architecture, Nature, and people in serving on the boards of NY museum houses such as the Dyckman Farmhouse, as well as contributing to what has become the classic resource book for the study of 18th Century architecture, Period Details. Her work has been seen in health magazines and calendars for the United Nations, and is now in the elevator of the "A" train at 184 St. Her charm and skill have made her the photographer for group and individual photographs of the Gold Wing's annual Thanksgiving exhibits.

Caroline believes that the layers of different textures that show the beauty of nature can be an inspiration in our daily lives, bringing us good cheer and relieving us from the strains of the pressures, noise and bustle of our city life.

Please join us at the Gold Wing
