Len Cicio

Places I Love in the Heights and Inwood

ARTIST'S STATEMENT:
For more than twenty years, Len Cicio has lived next to Inwood Hill Park, the last natural forest in Manhattan. There he finds a primal and supernatural quality to its landscapes.

Red December Skies

He is also inspired by city subways, which to him, are a perfect blend of sci-fi, drama, futurism, and a powerful energy force.

Len has been influenced by the Creator who stamped the color of love into life, and by the artwork of Vincent Van Gogh and Lyonel Feininger.

Escalators to 181 St.

Currently, his favorite drawing techniques are intermixes of colored pencils, pen and ink, oil pastels and wax art bars on paper. He plans to try acrylics on canvas soon.
