The Beauty of Art MARIO TAVAREZ

Mario Tavaréz

Mario came to America from the Dominican Republic in 1970, graduating from George Washington High School in 1974. He is a father of 3 and a grandfather of 3. He painted automobiles for 25 years. Now he paints art and sits with his pals on Dyckman St near a table full of books in English and Spanish.

From 1985 to 2001 Mario coached the Inwood Little League. Lots of these kids went on to college, some were drafted into the major leagues.

In 2022 the U.S Congress recognized Tavaréz for his work in the community.

Mario says: "When I am painting, I put on instrumental music like Kenny G and go to another world."

His artwork has been exhibited throughout New York City including the Arsenal gallery, the Whitney Museum, Columbia University, and the New York Public Library.
